

ALEC QUIG

574.360.5309 • ALECQUIG@GMAIL.COM • ALECQUIG.COM

EDUCATION:

Tulane University: Stone Center for Latin American Studies, MA, May 2012

Thesis: "Tropicália & the Evolutionary Line in Brazilian Popular Music"

Indiana University, Bloomington: BA with Departmental Honors, August 2009

Individualized Major Program: "Horizontal Integration in the Arts"

WORK:

2012:

Hired as full-time creative director at 3 Coasts, New Orleans, LA

Complete master's thesis on tropicália and Brazilian popular music

2011:

Establish "20 Questions" interview blog series for Portland Mercury weekly, Portland, OR

Complete photographic project on Six Flags New Orleans

2010:

Work as writer/photographer for Metromix and The Redeye at the Chicago Tribune Company, Chicago, IL

Receive full scholarship & fellowship to and enroll at Tulane University (Latin American Studies)

Receive full scholarship & fellowship to Fordham University (Sociology & Anthropology)

2009:

Conduct interviews for BOMB Magazine's blog

Complete photo-essay on Mardi Gras in New Orleans

Complete photo-essay on the American West

2008:

Receive Hutton International Experiences Grant to research popular music in Brazil

Photographer's assistant to Larry McCay of Larry McCay Photography

Write about film, music, and food for Indiana Daily Student and the South Bend Tribune

Compile College Writing, a portfolio of poems and arts-related essays

2007:

Receive Hutton grant to work at BOMB Magazine in Brooklyn, NY

Receive Hutton grant to be teacher's assistant to composer David Ward-Steinman

Write "The Unauthorized Guide to IU Bloomington," a student guide to Indiana University

2006:

Present concept for philanthropic computer program at Indiana University Undergraduate Research Fair

Travel to Blue Mountains of Jamaica to complete photo essay as service project

Receive Hutton Creative Activity Grant for "Feels Like Flight" and "Coney Island" photographs

Record Vocables EP with band; sang, drummed, arranged

2005:

Graphic designer for Indiana University Residential Programs and Services

Record A Disaster (Well-Noted) EP with band; sang, drummed, arranged